DELAYED STATE BUDGET MESSAGE NOW READY

Governor Earle Will Present State Budget

Fiscal Program For State To Be Revealed To Legislature Wednesday

REFERENDUM SEEN ON INCOME TAX

Total For Operation Of State During Biennium May Reach $385,000,000

By FREDERICK N. POLANGIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—A referendum on a graded income tax based on the "ability to pay" was in sight for Pennsylvania today as the Democratic-controlled legislature awaited presentation of Gov. George H. Earle's 1937-39 budget.

Introduced by Rep. Joseph A. Simon, D., Clinton, a proposal to amend the commonwealth's 1874 constitution to permit such a levy was ready for final action in the senate following previous passage in the house.

Plebescite Next Year

A similar resolution was passed at the first 1936 emergency session, thus paving the way for a plebescite on the issue next year. This, because the state supreme court found a graded income tax bill enacted at the 1935 regular session unconstitutional.

Tomorrow, at noon, the chief executive will inform the general assembly and Pennsylvania's taxpayers what the cost of government was expected to be for the next two years. The anticipated budget estimate, thrice-postponed while administration leaders negotiated for federal funds to carry out a $56,150,000 institutional building program, was expected to throw the legislature's machinery into high-gear after seven weeks of relative timebiding.

Democratic chieftains remained tight-lipped as the hour of presenting the budget estimate approached but reliable sources had it that the state treasury will find its books abalanced at the end of the current biennium and that Pennsylvania might be in for a slight reduction in taxes.

Likely To Pass Bill Allowing Justices To Retire At 70 Years

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WSHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A warning from house leaders that they will kill the bill authorizing supreme court justices to retire at the age of 70, if it is amended by the senate, today appeared to insure its early enactment into law without change.

The bill, passed two weeks ago by the house, would grant retirement privileges at full pay to any justice reaching 70 after ten years on the bench. Thereafter, the chief justice could assign any retired justice to light duties in the circuit courts of appeal, if the retired justice were willing to assume that work.

Reasons for the house's warning were undisclosed. President Roosevelt was reported friendly to the legislation and the proposed amendments, non-political in character, touched fundamental legal questions.

State Patrol And Police May Be Consolidated

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Administration leaders moved today toward the consolidation of the state police and state highway patrol.

This was expected to be one of the "surprise" recommendations in Gov. George H. Earle's budget message to the general assembly tomorrow. The consolidated units, a spokesman said, will be under the direct control of the governor's office and headed by a new state official. Unconfirmed reports had it that James H. (Shooey) Malone, former superintendent of Philadelphia police, was slated for the post.

There are, at present, 440 state policemen and some 600 highway patrolmen. Indications were that Maj. Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the state police, would retain his post, but would answer to the newly appointed "commissioner of the motor police." Capt. Charles Quarles, former head of the highway patrol, recently resigned his post.

Day's Testimony Is Centered Upon Uniontown Man

Defense Witnesses Claim Monaghan, "Violent And Vicious" When Drinking

TESTIMONY TAKING NEARS CONCLUSION

Action Of Gunderman In Handling Of Monaghan Is Attacked By Margiotti

By DICK SHANER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COURTHOUSE, SOMERSET, Pa., Feb. 23.—Frank C. Monaghan, 64-year-old Uniontown hotelkeeper who died of multiple fractures and hemorrhages while undergoing police questioning was painted in court today as a "violent, vicious, and quarrelsome" character when drinking.

A host of character witnesses were called to the stand by the defense to denounce the dead man in an effort to save State Trooper Stacey Gunderman, first of the seven men indicted for murder as a result of Monaghan's death to be brought to trial, from the electric chair.

One witness, Pat Collins, a Democratic leader of Uniontown, testified that, several hours before Monaghan was arrested for the slashing of County Detective John C. Wall, he had heard him declare:

"'I'll never serve another day in jail. I'll cut some one's throat before the night is over and that means the law.'"

Collins said he pleaded with Monaghan to desist.

Denies Enmity

Under cross-examination by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti, Collins denied Monaghan's wife had ever ejected him from their hotel in Uniontown after finding him in bed with a woman or

New Turn In Peggy's Case

Grand Jury Probe Into Suit Is Now Reported As Likely

ONE ATTORNEY QUITTING CASE

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Peggy Garcia's $500,000 heart balm action against David Rubinoff, radio violinist, took a new turn today when it was announced from the district attorney's office that the suit may be the subject of a grand jury investigation.

Assistant District Attorney Eugene J. Finnegan stated that he had been "working on" the case for a week, and planned to present a statement to Justice Salvatore Cotillo when the trial is resumed in supreme court.

More Troubles

In the meantime, other troubles confronted the pretty blonde Virginia girl, who declared in Roanoke that she was a kissless bride at the age of 12 in 1925 and was therefore not legally married in 1933 when she alleges Rubinoff asked her to marry him.

Her attorney of record, Perry Bittel, announced he was withdrawing from the case because Peggy went with another attorney, Bernard Sandler, to Virginia without consulting him.

And Rubinoff's attorney, Abraham J. Halprin, said he was prepared to produce at least a dozen Virginia witnesses to combat Peggy's version of her childhood marriage and her present status as a married woman. The matter is made even more complicated by the fact that she has a second husband, Michael La Rocco, whom she married here in September, 1936.

France Seeks Support Of U. S. In Peace Moves

(International News Service)

PARIS, Feb. 23.—Premier Leon Blum was on record today with a strong appeal for collaboration between the United States and France for maintenance of peace.

Stating France wanted peace but was forced to rearm because of the European situation, Blum, in a speech, declared:

"We know an indissoluble connection exists between the entente of states for reduction of armaments and their entente for renewal and reorganization of commercial exchanges. Without political peace economic cooperation is impossible."

He said he hoped the United States would never be called upon to collaborate in war, adding:

"It is in peace that France desires to cultivate American friendship, but she is convinced American friendship is one of the vital conditions for maintaining peace."

United States Ambassador William C. Bullitt, in an address before the same gathering, said the United States may be dragged into the next war but will keep out of it if possible.

Report Rebel Forces Drive Into Madrid

(International News Service)

ROME, Feb. 23.—General Francisco Franco's rebel forces late today were reported here to be advancing rapidly toward the center of University City, in the northwest corner of the Spanish capital.

These advices, coming through Italian sources in Madrid, stated that after a heavy shelling from batteries of insurgent field guns and after intense bombing by rebel planes, the loyalist troops began withdrawing from their University City positions shortly after 2:00 p. m. The retreat left a breach in the front 1½ miles wide and half a mile deep, according to the Italian reports.

(Editor's Note: A Spanish government communique issued in Madrid after 2:00 p. m. stated the loyalists held their positions in the face of the rebel drive in University City.)

Place Heavy Guard Over Youth Held For Brutal Girl Slaying

(International News Service)

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Feb. 23—Fearing reprisal by friends and neighbors of 16 year old Helen Moyer, brutally slain Coatesville high school student, authorities today placed a heavy guard around the Chester county jail cell of Alexander Meyer, 20 year old farmboy.

Precautions to protect the prisoner reached even into his cell as police made every effort to conceal Meyer's identity from other prisoners. Other prisoners were deprived of their radios so no news of the crime could get to them.

Deliberate Murder

Feeling against the former reformatory inmate reached fever pitch last night at Coatesville when a coroner's jury recommended he be held on a charge of first-degree murder.

Deliberate Murder

"We find" the jury reported five minutes after the introduction of testimony was completed, "that Helen Moyer was deliberately murdered by Alexander Meyer. We recoomment that Alexander Meyer be held for the grand jury on a charge of first-degree murder.

Condemn Parole System

"And we also issue a condemnation of the parole system which permits defendants of Meyer's type to be at large."

Meyer, who served 14 months in a reformatory for shooting two Philadelphia girls who resisted an attempt to attack them in 1934, was not present at the inquest, conducted here.

Sutherland May Resign

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23.—In order to bring his long smouldering fuel with Athletic Director W. Don Harrison quickly to a head, Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, may submit his resignation when he returns here Thursday from a speaking tour, it was learned today.

Sutherland left this morning for Endicott, N. Y., by automobile and will visit Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Buffalo, N. Y., before he returns. Before his departure, it was learned, he told several intimate friends he believed the best way out of the impasse was for him to resign as quickly as possible.

Sutherland was represented as believing such a move, sure to embroil students and alumni into a bitter controversy, was the most expedient means of ending a controversy which he believes is neither "dignified or in the best interests of the school."

The announcement was made following a conference with Pittsburgh's mayor, Cornelius D. Scully, and other members of the university board of trustees, including Charles A. Reitinger, Norman MacLeod and John Weber, business manager.

The governor announced the board has agreed that one-half of its membership will be representatives of the alumni, and added that the university has returned to "good standing" and will get its regular biennial appropriation.

Fire Lays Waste To Douglas, Alaska, Famous In Gold Mining Lore

(International News Service)

DOUGLAS, Alaska, Feb. 23.—The famed gold mining town of Douglas was almost totally destroyed by fire today. No deaths were reported.

The blaze, whipped by a southeasterly gale, swept through the wooden buildings of the business and residential districts unchecked.

The Douglas and Juneau fire departments, hampeerd by the wind and inadequate water supplies, were unable to check the flames, which leaped from building to building.

Coast guardsmen from the cutter Tallapoosa and volunteers from Juneau, across Gastineau Channel, aided in evacuating families.

The fire still was burning, with all attempts to check its progress futile.

PERFORMS RARE OPERATION

Famous Surgeons Watch Operation

California Man Believed Recovering After Unusual Heart Surgery

PATIENT'S HEART BEING STRANGLED

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Saved from death by a "miracle" of modern surgery, Matthew B. Moore, 23, of Vallejo, Cal., was reported in "very good" condition today at University of California Hospital here.

Moore's heart was being strangled by a diseased pericardial sac, guardian of man's most vital organ. Some mysterious infection had transformed the sac into a tough calcium-like vise which was tightening its grip on Moore's heart.

Performs Operation

Before 15 famous western surgeons, Dr. Claude S. Beck, 45, performed a delicate operation and successfully removed the visce of stone.

What Dr. Beck actually did was to cut a "window" in Moore's chest, exposing the youth's heart for almost an hour. Deftly, he made the first incision directly over the heart and then gradually widened the aperture as his knife cut deeper.

So tight was the grip on Moore's heart by the diseased pericardinal sac that its beat could not be seen with the eye.

Dr. Beck placed a warm sponge over the tight-clutching membrane. Then, with great care not to cut into the heart itself, he dissected the membrance cover which fit over Moore's heart as tightly as a glove.

DAY'S TESTIMONY IS CENTERED UPON UNIONTOWN MAN

that he bore enmity toward the hotelkeeper who, Margiotti asserts, died under a savage and brutal "third degree" for Wall's slashing.

The parade of defense witnesses began shortly after Margiotti believered another blow to the defense. Under cross-examination, he forced Private H. W. Stansfield, an instructor in jiu jitsu at the state police training school at Hershey, to admit that Gunderman could have used any one of three jiu jitsu holds to subdue Monaghan without hurling the old man over his head and crashing him down on the floor upon his back.

And again using Margiotti as a model, Stansfield demonstrated the three holds before the jury in the case. Margiotti was forced to stand up on a platform to reach his arm around the neck of the six-foot two-inch witness in the manner in which Gunderman testified Monaghan had attacked him from behind. The attorney general winced a few times as Stansfield demonstrated.

Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey informed John J. Duggan, Jr., chief defense counsel, that he could object if he desired as this was not proper cross-examination of his witness but Duggan made no objections.

Sensational Move

In another sensational move, Margiotti summoned Major Lynn G. Adams, superintendent of the Pennsylvania State Police, to Somerset to appear as a witness in rebuttal against Gunderman's explanation that he was forced to fling Monaghan over his head in self defense. Margiotti took a skeptical view toward his explanation. He charges Monaghan died as the result of a deliberate and brutal "third degree" torture which left him with 11 fractured ribs, a splintered jaw, a broken nose, 50 or more abrasions, numerous bruises and lacerations, and hemorrhages.

Margiotti by means of a bitter cross-examination forced reluctantly from the lips of Corp. Joseph Conwell of the state police, Gunderman's superior, the admission that he had discussed with the defendant a conversation in Pittsburgh between Margiotti, Conwell, and Capt. Jacob Mauk, Gunderman's immediate superior. The conversation pertained to the prosecution plans in the case. Margiotti intimated. Conwell also admitted visiting the home where the 12 defendants in the case and their attorneys are staying on the outskirts of the city, but Duggan brought out he did so at Duggan's own invitation.

Conwell testified he had told Major Adams what Gunderman told him in a subsequent oral statement after first making a written statement that Monaghan had not been abused while being questioned about the slashing of County Detective John C. Wall. Later, Gunderman made an oral statement admitting he had struck the prisoner in self defense.

Dean's Cell Is Being Scrutinized

DETROIT, Feb. 23.—The jail cell "love nest," where Black Legion killer Dayton Dean kept a three-hour love tryst with a 17-year-old girl, was being ransacked with a fine-tooth comb by police today after a wrench was discovered there.

After a checkup, Police Inspector John Hoffman expressed belief the wrench, adjusted to fit bolts on bars outside the window, had been in the cell for more than a year. ## LIKELY TO PASS BILL ALLOWING JUSTICES TO RETIRE AT 70 YEARS retired justices to serve in the lower courts. He denounced it as "'insulting" to the dignity of a retired supreme courst justice.

"We cannot abolish the office of a supreme court justice," said Borah. "We cannot take away his salary. We cannot take away his duties. We can only lighten his duties if he is agreeable. There is no necessity to provide new duties in retirement."

Other senators desired to redraft the entire bill to obtain the same goal proposed in the original house measure they condemned the house bill as poorly drawn, since it proposes to amend an existing law instead of setting up a new statute.

All amendments previously were defeated in the senate judiciary committee. Members said this result was due to the house ultimatum.

Public Hearings March 9

Friends and foes of President Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the supreme court meanwhile counselled thorough study of the program before permitting senate action. The senate judiciary committee will start public hearings on it March 9, hearing government officials first. Chairman Ashurst (D) of Arizona, said:

"I think I am favoring this bill when I say I want it thoroughly explored. I believe this bill can and will stand analysis and investigation. I believe it would be harmful to this measure to attempt any hasty consideration of it.

Senator Van Nuys (D) of Indiana, leader of the opposition, agreed that the hearings should be thorough, saying:

"We, who oppose this bill, shall wish to call a number of prominent people as witnesses. We want to hear from judges on the bench, from students of constiutional government and from leaders of public opinion."

Several months may elapse before the bill reaches the floor of the senate. House leaders insisted they will not consider it until after the senate has acted on it.

The supreme court justices will be given an opportunity to be heard if they request a hearing. The justices, however, have remained aloof from the legislative activities of congress, making but one appearance before a congressional committee within memory of capitol officials—and that was on a bill affecting simplification of appellate procedure.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and sympathy shown during the death of our beloved son and brother, Peter DeMatteo.

GOVERNOR EARLE WILL PRESENT STATE BUDGET

liably reported, will be more than a set of figures outlining the commonwealth's fiscal program for the next two years. For two things, it was expected to include a recommendation for the consolidation of the state police and highway patrol under the governor's office and a hint as to what type of public assistance administration the chief executive favors, with his relief estimate.

Any relief estimate the governor recommends, it was pointed out, will be contingent upon a particular plan of administration—either the whole, or a part of the Goodrich report, or a personal "compromise" plan. The Goodrich committee recommended the scrapping of the two-century old poor board system to be replaced by consolidated agencies financed principally by the state. The committee estimated this would cost $155,000,000 for two years, with "increased standards."

Speculation On Amount

Speculation on the governor's estimates was rampant on Capitol Hill today. Sources ranged their estimates on the 1937-39 tax yield anywhere from $340,000,000 to $385,000,000.

President Roosevelt's promise of $70,000,000 in federal funds for the institutional building program did much to alleviate the governor's fiscal headaches.

Of that total $15,000,000 was earmarked for WPA labor and $5,000,000 for non-relief workers; the remaining $50,000,000 was made available for loans at four per cent interest. It was estimated that the $15,000,000 would take 30,000 workers from the WPA rolls, making room for a similar number from the commonwealth's direct relief burden.

The controversial horse-racing issue was put to sleep for the time being when the Melchiorre measure on that subject was recommitted to a house committee.

No Power Plants For State

After passing finally a bill "prohibiting duress and intimidation of voters," the senate sent back into committee the administration's key flood-control bill for "minor amendment." The measure was ready to be placed in the position for final passage when Sen. William B. Rodgers, D., Allegheny, chairman of the forests and waters committee, asked that the bill be returned to that group to take out a provision which might be interpreted as putting the commonwealth in the electric power business.

Both chambers disposed of routine calenders, clearing their desks for the all-important budget message.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Feb. 23—Samuel Rosoff, wealthy New York subway contractor today agreed to come here for questioning in connection with the Redwood murder case.

This announcement by Prosecutor John J. Breslin was made as police pushed their search for two notorious "trigger men" suspected of implication in the slaying of Norman Redwood, New York labor leader.

Previously, it had been believed that Rosoff would fight, via the New York courts, against Breslin's attempts to bring him here for questioning.

RENTZ HOME SCENE OF WASHINGTON TEA

American flags, effectively combined with D. A. R. emblems and quantities of cut flowers, dark red roses and carnations in both red and white, lent additional attractiveness to the beautiful home of Mrs. J. F. Rentz on Winter avenue Monday afternoon, for the tea given by Lawrence chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution.

The occasion commemorated the birthday of Washington, and was most successful there being around 70 guests including several visitors, Mrs. W. E. Ferver, Mrs. James Carpenter, Mrs. E. R. Bannon, and several younger women, members of the newly organized Junior group. Miss Margaret Heasley was introduced as a new member of Lawrence chapter, having recently been transferred from Sharon.

The program proper was opened by the regent, Mrs. H. R. McCulloch, giving a brief talk on The Father of Our Country. The usual flag salute followed and Mrs. J. O. Woods read the prayer, followed by assembly singing of "America".

Mrs. Bessie Maldoon introduced Miss Rebecca Gibbons and Miss Hazel Louise Campbell who supervised a group of Ben Franklin students in a patriotic skit. They sang old time songs and others which were popular during the World War. Miss Campbell played accompaniments.

When their part of the program was concluded, each of the children was provided with a treat of candy, cake and nuts, daintly wrapped in patriotic napkins.

Tea was served in the dining room from a charmingly arranged table. The cover was an exquisite handmade lace banquet cloth which furnished a beautiful background for lovely silver and crystal. The centerpiece was formed of red roses and carnations in the two colors, with the blue idea being developed with blue tapers and carried through the candies and cake icings.

Mrs. McCulloch presided at the tea service, and assisting Mrs. Rentz with the serving were the cohostesses, Mrs. E. J. Blanning, Mrs. Benjamin Beisel, Mrs. Clarence H. Fisher, Mrs. A. P. Treser, Miss Nannie Mitcheltree, Mrs. Walter M. Barber, Miss Mary E. Barber, Mrs. J. R. Bigler, Mrs. William E. Burrows.

In March, the next regular meeting is scheduled for the sixth, at the home of Mrs. Irvine A. Balph, East Wallace avenue. For the program, Miss Bernice Bartlett will discuss "Glassware of Eary Pennsylvania."

HADASSAH EVENT AT COSMO CLUB

For tonight, New Castle chapter Hadassah has extended an invitation to its members, husbands and friends to celebrate at the Cosmo club, its silver jubilee and festival of Purim, by an ingathering of linens and clothing for the hospitals and health welfare work.

This week marks the silver jubilee of Hadassah, 25 years of earnest work, which has changed the public health outlook of the near east—one which was founded at Purim time in 1912, in New York City, by Henrietta Zold and a small group of American women.

Today, due largely to the work of 306 chapters of Hadassah in America, Palestine is a model for other countries. The mandate commission of the League of Nations and eminent authors in the United States have recognized the efficiency of Hadassah sanitation program and medical practice.

A novel feature tonight will be the circulation of a parchment scroll on which every member of Hadassah will inscribe her name. When completed, it will be placed in the reception hall of the medical center being built on Mt. Scopus in Jerusalem.

Members of the local chapter are anticipating the arrival of Rabbi Carl Manello, one of Youngstown's prominent rabbis, who will be the guest speaker. He will review the widely discussed book, "Brothers Ashkenazi." Mrs. Sam Edelstein will relate current events and introduce the honored guest.

SCHOOL VANDALISM

POLICE and school authorities of Philadelphia have a problem on their hands in dealing with four youths guilty of wanton vandalism recently in a school building in West Philadelphia.

The four boys, ranging in age from 12 to 15 years, entered the school building and made such a wreck of the interior that upper classes had to be dismissed and other grades held their classes in the basement and school lunchroom.

Arrested in their homes later the only explanation the boys would give for their conduct was: "We don't like school."

Here is a sample of a growing problem in the country, the increasing disrespect of the younger generation for law and order and evident lack of discipline in their homes. Such conduct as that participated in by these four youths cannot find any justification, of course and the punishment of the boys, no matter how much deserved, will not solve the problem.

Home training has fallen down woefully in recent years. Schools can never take the place of parental training and discipline. Recently, Sanford Bates, noted penologist resigned as head of the Federal Prisons system to become executive secretary of the Boys' Club Movement. He feels that he can be of more service in trying to prevent crime than in attempting to cure it. Secretary of Welfare John D. Pennington, in this state, is working out an interesting experiment at Huntingdon Industrial school in an effort to segregate the inmates by keeping newcomers and first offenders in a group by themselves with definite moral training as a background for the boys' training in the school.

These things are well and good, but there is nothing that can take the place of old-fashioned home discipline and training backed by example of parents who live correct lives themselves.

AN OLD HABIT

As an increasing number of critics of the present generation are putting it, America, along with the rest of the world, is on the decline, slipping from old virtues into new vices. The tendency to compare the present unfavorably with the past is an old one.

Doubtless some years hence men now young will be proclaiming the superior virtues of this day and comparing the then present unfavorably with the time of their youth. Therefore the world does not take such criticism seriously. For it knows that as a rule one generation is little, if any, better or worse than the one preceding or following.

CROOKED PATHS

A beaten path across a hillside or through a wood rarely runs straight. It turns aside for obstacles, makes concessions to uneven ground and the rise and fall of the slope or turns aside for the vantage or view of a better vision of the destination. Yet it was first made by the feet of men who were chiefly concerned to get through directly and quickly.

Most of the highways of life run likewise crooked, curving and twisting constantly from the straight path of intention. Little things block the trail, and it is easier to avoid them than to remove or surmount them. Tempting paths of easy going are offered on either side. Sometimes the straight trail is lost beyond recovery; often it is won again only after much time wasted in wandering.

Most of us start out in confidence and determination toward a chosen goal. We hold fast to our course so long as good intention is fresh; we lose it when the distractions of the way steal our eyes from the goal ahead. This is the most tragic wastage of the world, whereby high hopes go for nothing and human strength and talent are lost to the service of mankind. Such waste is avoided by looking for guidance both backward and forward—back to the zeal of the beginning and forward to the hope of the end.

RIGHT WAY, WRONG WAY

It is possible that some persons will be confused by the proposals to amend the Constitution which inevitably followed President Roosevelt's effort to pack the Supreme Court. Most of these resolutions are put forward by adherents of the president who cannot follow him quite into the packing plan, but who wish to express in a casual way their sympathy with his desires. One or two resolutions would produce the retirement of Supreme Court Justices at the age of 70 or 75. Others would make it possible for Congress to override, by a two-thirds vote, a decision of the court that a law was unconstitutional.

However unwise or debatable these resolutions may be, it must be said for them that they proceed along orderly and legal lines. No intelligent person questions the right of Congress to propose amendments or the right of the states to ratify them by act of legislature or convention. That is part of the fundamental law of the land. But these resolutions should not be linked in the public mind with the effort to circumvent the Constitution by packing the Supreme Court in the manner demanded by Mr. Roosevelt. No odium of lawlessness will be attached to any amendment, whatever its merits or faults, if it is offered in the way prescribed.

There is indignation in the land. Not before in many years has The Sun received so many letters of protest as have followed the President's devious but daring proposal. x x x x That Mr. Roosevelt has not receded from it in the face of the wave of public anger is indicated obliquely in his message on the crop insurance bill.

Whether he is scornful of informed public opinion or confident that the Congress will bend as usual to his wishes is a question. Apparently he wants his own way and fears that it could not be attained by amending the Constitution.—New York Sun.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

NAME, PLEASE?

There are many famous growers of flowers in California. The reason is, naturally, because of California's much advertised climate (the recent cold snap has confused Californians not a little).

Now the horticulturists are a proud lot and they do not let you forget. I received a letter the other day from one of them. To be sure it was only an advertising spring catalog of rare bulbs and the letter was in no wise a personal one. It was printed but it is entitled to a reprinting. This chap says:

"Dear Floral Friend:

"What is in a name? Our answer is—Just what we put into it ourselves. There have been many Smiths whom fate could not hide.

"I am thinking of a name that looks aristocratic and sounds most agreeable to the ear. Or it would if he had not been possessed by a Public Enemy No. 1, a murderer, robber and kidnaper. His name suggests only terror.

"Names like Jennie Lind, Florence Nightingale, Abraham Lincoln, Alfred Tennyson and John Smith will abide forever in the minds of men, surrounded by an effulgence of glory.

"We make our own choice of the deeds that others will associate with the name we have. Modestly at least we can make our name suggest to our friends and neighbors something agreeable; like the musical sound of a bell, the perfume of a flower or the stateliness of a tree.

"My aspiration is that my name may suggest to the limited portion of humanity that come to hear it, something about flowers and bulbs and plants, an ambition that I realize is under many limitations. But if I can originate a worth-while flower like the Gladiolus Los Angeles or Crinum Cecil Houdyshel now and then, that is something. Also I can place within reach of my customers the finest flowering bulbs that I can find at the most reasonable prices possible. And that is something more.

"No doubt, you have guessed already I was leading up to my own name. It is frequently mispronounced. For that reason years ago I adopted a trade mark that illustrates how to pronounce the name. The hands suggest a 'How-dee-do'. So pronounce it 'How-dee-shell'. But I don't spell it that way. Being a different kind of—shel, I am sensitive about having my name written with a single 'l'."

His name is "Houdyshel."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PARENTS UNWELCOME

PARENTS who care visit their child's school when welcome. Unfortunately some teachers do not welcome the visit, some principals do not, and some whole school systems permit visiting by parents only on certain days or by special dispensation. What a curious philosophy of education, when any school authority would discourage visiting school by parents! Whereas the child of the elementary grades usually is eager and proud to have his parents sit as visitors in his classroom, the child of the junior and senior high school prefers to have the parents stay away.

I remember the shock which Mrs. Myers and I experienced when our eldest child, on entering the seventh grade, junior high, informed us deliberately that he hoped we would not come to visit in his classes. He explained that it just wasn't done except by a few parents whose children were not getting on well at school, or by parents who came to quarrel with the principal or teacher, or seek some special favors for the child. Regretfully we acceded, of course, to his request. As each of the next two children entered junior high we were ready for the announcement about school visiting.

Solution to Problem

What might be done to break down this objection by adolescent students to school visiting? I have asked this question of groups of parents and groups of teachers in about half the states. The nearest approach to a solution of the problem is the parents' visiting day, or visiting night with school in session, the students then volunteering to attend. More often only the teachers are present, each in his own classroom. To this room the parents come to learn about the work done by their children. But it appears that parents whose children excel at school are most likely to show up on parents' night, while those whose children lag tend to stay away, dreading to have their children discussed in the presence of a neighbor.

In case your child, particularly in the lower grades, reports something at home which enrages you, try to utter no opinion at the time. Let the child go on so long as he does not speak abusively of the teacher. Wait a few days until you cool off. In the meantime pray for poise and self-control. And when, finally, you do go to see the teacher, master your emotions and try "to talk the matter over" reasonably. Remember that you heard only one side of the matter, and by a child who was limited and biased in his judgment and probably had a magnifying imagination.

WOMEN STILL SCREAM

They used to talk a great deal about woman's prerogatives. But lately the world seems to be leveling off as far as advantages for the sexes are concerned, so we find these special privileges of the ladies getting fewer and fewer.

For example, take fainting. Women used to have the privilege of passing out at the slightest provocation. And they did. But somehow, that right has been withdrawn, so the gals have to stand up and take it like the men these days. And how many husbands nowadays will tolerate a wife changing her mind? Not many. But at one time mind changing was an universal feminine prerogative.

Only one seems to be surviving. That's screaming.

Good Taste

By FRANCINE MARKEL

By FRANCINE MARKEL

DEAR MISS MARKEL—For the first time in my life I am able to afford a nurse-governess for my small children. Please give me some information regarding her duties, her hours and just how she should be treated—whether as a member of the family or as a domestic. Mrs. NEW-RICH.

Answer—First of all, you should choose a woman of culture and refinement, one who is very fond of children and who can gain their respect and confidence.

She should be treated as a member of the family, eating her meals with the children either in the dining room or in the nursery. She should sit in the living room with the family and go out with them occasionally, perhaps to church or to concerts. She should sleep in a room adjoining that of the children and superintend the preparation of their food, looking after their clothes, laundry, baths and teaching them manners.

While the nurse-governess' duties and responsibilities are more or less continuous, she must have certain hours of relaxation and freedom arranged at your and her mutual convenience.

Even though you choose the best nurse-governess extant, do not put your children entirely in her care. Always keep an eye on them and spend part of every day in their company.

Children who are brought up by outsiders are lonely for a mother's affectionate care and invariably lack an entirely happy childhood.

ANOTHER SIT-DOWN STRIKE

The servant girl is sitting in the parlor night and day.
The cook is in the kitchen strumming tunes upon a tray.
We are sleeping at the neighbors and we get our meals in town.
We have had a disagreement and the help is sitting down.

What's the question that divides us?
Well, the cook insists that we Ask to many guests to dinner. She would limit us to three.
But the missus, rather stubborn,
won't agree to such demands.
Now we've sitters in the parlor and a strike upon our hands.

I can't get a change of linen or my other socks and ties.
To the place no one's admitted save the boy who brings supplies.
When I said I own the building,
every single nail and board,
I was told that's just a theory which hasn't been explored.

I'm a bit perplexed about it. I would settle this in peace,
But I mustn't lose my temper,
mustn't summon the police,
For 'twould only make more trouble should we take the house by storm;
So I ordered coal this morning just to keep the sitters warm.

Scout Heads Have Dinner Event At Y. W.

Girl Scout Council And Leaders Honor New Regional Director Monday

HELPFUL ADVICE IS GIVEN BY DIRECTOR

"We are planning changes in the Girl Scout program which will enable us to serve more girls, and enable us better to meet the modern girl's needs," Miss Marguerite Twohy declared at the dinner, held in her honor, in the Green Room of the Y. W. C. A. at 6:30 last evening by the Girl Scout Council and the Leaders' Association.

Extensive Experience

Miss Twohy is the new regional director of this district, which includes Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, and the District of Columbia. She has been in scouting for many years. Her first experience was in the capacity of scout leader, a position she held for five years in her home town of Portland, Oregon. Before taking up scouting professionally she was assistant director of Greenwich House, a settlement project much like Jane Addams' Hull House in Chicago. In professional Girl Scout work, Miss Twohy has been director of Manhattan Scouts, travelling community organizer over the entire United States, and regional director of the southwestern district of the United States.

Local leaders benefitted greatly from Miss Twohy's sound advice, and her many helpful suggestions.

Thirty Attend Dinner

Places were set for thirty leaders and council members at attractively decorated tables where George Washington birthday colors and favors were used. Mrs. Earl F. Guy introduced Miss Twohy and later had charge of a short business meeting. Miss Mildred Lusk and Miss Thelma Pankratz, leaders of Troop 12, were in charge of decorations, while the Misses Edith Cleaveland, Mildred Miller, Ruth Conner and Mrs. George Ward comprised the committee on arrangements and reservations.

During the afternoon, Miss Twohy held conferences in the Castleton hotel with members of the public relations and training and personnel committees of the local Girl Scout council. Local problems pertaining to Girl Scouts were discussed, and Miss Twohy offered many splendid suggestions. She urged council members and local leaders to attend the regional conference to be held in Wilmington, Del., April 19, 20, and 21.

Due to the death of her father in Lisbon, O., the Girl Scout commissioner, Mrs. C. M. England, was unable to be at the dinner.

Village Will Move One Mile West Via Huge Rollers

To Move Plainfield, Ohio, One Mile To Get Above Water Level Of New Dam

(International News Service)

COSCHOCTON, O., Feb. 23.—The village of Plainfield, population 183, which has been located on Wills creek, 10 miles southeast of here, for more than 100 years, is going to move.

Almost the entire village will be jacked up on rollers and moved west for approximately a mile, to get it above the maximum water level created by the Wills creek dam of the Muskingum Conservancy District project.

All residents have signed agreements to move, and the new village has been laid out by engineers on the new site. Property owners have selected lots to which they will move buildings or erect new ones, and the movers will be compensated for the difference in price between their old properties and new ones. In a few cases more expensive sites have been selected, and the owners will pay the difference.

Approximately 20 houses, two general stores, a garage and filling station, and the 12 by 20 foot postoffice will be moved. The Methodist church may also be transferred to the new site, but may be left to the mercy of the waters, as members are considering attending a nearby church.

Nine villagers will move their own houses to the new site, and 11 other homes have been purchased for removal and sale to others whose property is not suitable for transfer. Several new houses are also planned.

New Plainfield will be a more modern village. It has been laid out with a central square, to be called Jacobs Square, after the town's original name, Jacobsport. In addition a water system is planned.

The present school building is above the maximum flood line, and will not be moved.

Urge County Unit In Vote On Liquor

MIFFLINTOWN, Pa., Feb. 23.—The Juniata County Men's Dry League and the county chapter of the Women's Christian Temperance Union have sponsored a petition asking for legislative action on seven different phases of the "dry" question.

The petition with 1600 signers has been sent to Governor Earle and to the presiding officers of the State House of Representatives and State Senate.

Among some of the things prohibitionists ask for are: legislation to make the county the voting unit on the wet-dry question by local option, instead of the townships and boroughs as at present, and that when such a unit goes "dry" the State liquor store should also be removed; that zones be established so that no license be granted an establishment within 300 feet of a church, school, college or hospital.

Gary Cooper says:

"It's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke"

"A little over a year ago I changed to Luckies because I enjoy the flavor of their tobacco. Ever since, my throat has been in fine shape. As my voice and throat mean so much to me in my business, it's plain common sense for me to prefer this light smoke. So I'm strong for Luckies!"

Gary Cooper

IN PARAMOUNT'S "THE PLAINSMAN" DIRECTED BY CECIL B. DE MILLE

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Mr. Cooper verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

AROUND CITY HALL

Council met informally Monday and discussed Cascade Park. Among the phases that came before the solons was whether paid parking should be continued or free parking permitted. Another matter considered was whether the city should continue to rent out the dance pavilion or operate it municipally. A decision whether or not to have the Gorge Ride removed was discussed. A decision will be made on these matters within the near future after which the park commission will form their plans for 1937.

Officials of the Bell Telephone company have been asked by city officials to submit another proposal concerning a change from the present telephone situation in city hall. Sometime ago the company offered one proposal that would have necessitated an exchange in the city hall and another for dial phones.

DEFENDS JUSTICES OF PEACE COURTS

(International News Service)

BOWLING GREEN, O., Feb. 23—Defending justice of the peace courts branded by Sen. Maurice Lipscher (D), Mahoning, as "rackets" Earl E. Bailey, this city, said today village squires would lead a concentrated counter-attack on the proposed measure to abolish such courts.

Bailey, president of the Ohio township and Village Judicial League, said that extinction of 2,250 justices in the state would rob laymen of a source to solve petty troubles in communities and rural sections of home rule government.

"Where cases are now settled in a few days before a justice of the peace at a small cost, the proposed law would require months of litigation at a cost of many dollars," Bailey declared.

Bailey led a successful fight for his organization in defeating a similar proposal to curb magistrates two years ago in the house.

Governor Hoffman Renews Warning

New Jersey Executive Says Seizure Of Factories Will Not Be Allowed

(International News Service)

TRENTON, N. J., Feb. 23—Gov. Harold G. Hoffman of New Jersey today had renewed his attack on the committee for industrial organization, already warned by him that steps will be taken to curb its activities in this state.

Hoffman described the CIO as a "militant minority that does not total two per cent of our population, claiming governmental blessing as it seizes private property, defies the law and denies the authority of the remaining 98 per cent of the people."

"Labor has a right to organize," the governor said in a radio address. "I believe in the methods of collective bargaining. Labor has the right to strike against unfair and oppressive working conditions. Labor's declaration of freedom is written into the laws of New Jersey and in those of many other states. Labor must remember that law is after all the most precious asset that the working man has. In its own interest labor must not suffer that right to be destroyed by its enemies within its ranks.

"To hold a factory for ransom by the process of a sit-down strike is to refuse reason and law. Older and more firmly established labor organization practice has made great strides without recourse to this un-American course of action."

New York To Seek Halt In Bootleg Coal Sale

(International News Service)

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 23.—A move to stop the sale in New York state of "bootleg" coal from Pennsylvania and other neighboring states was launched in the legislature today.

Assemblyman James Hill, (R), introduced a resolution creating a legislative committee to investigate the unlawful sale of coal and recommend means of stopping it.

The committee would consist of four assemblymen and three senators. Hill asks an appropriation of $15,000.

"The sale of coal in New York state by unauthorized dealers who evade and nullify provisions of the agriculture and markets law governing the sale of coal," Assemblyman Hill said, "Has become a complex and serious problem.

"A considerable portion of this coal is believed to be stolen property originating in neighboring coal-producing states.

"Legitimate coal dealers who maintain licensed weightmasters and faithfully observe the laws governing the sale of coal are being forced to operate in a manifestly unfair and unreasonable market."

Hill said coal consumers are being defrauded as to quantity and quality of coal purchasd from these irregular purveyors.

See New Type In Waitresses

Girls In Profession Now Have Education And Are More Cultured, Mc-Intyre Finds

DOG ACTS ARE EARNING MONEY

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The post of waitress in New York has taken on a polish. She is rarely the trigger-talking, gum-chewing type so long featured in the tea rooms and hash houses. More often she is soft spoken, neatly attired and not infrequently from a fashionable boarding school.

O. O. McIntyre

One of the hilarities of a current farce is the Russian countess who speaks of being a waitress at Child's in Columbus Circle with a possibility of a transfer to a Fifth avenue branch "where it is only a step to Schrafft's". It is no gag, however, that several ex-nobles tote trays.

Formerly the waitress usually remained a waitress unless she charmed and married a customer. But now they may be promoted to the job of hostess and from that post a number have become owners of restaurants and tea rooms, and quite successful, too.

The modern—ahem!—server in a first-class place, if capable, often makes as much with her tips as a private secretary. There is a directress who gives the novice expert training before she takes the floor and the one-time asset of being flip is entirely taboo.

Most celebrated of the dog acts is Paul Sydell and his dog Spotty—a fox terrier who twitches his tail at command and balances on one forefoot on the palm of his owner. Spotty is credited with being the most intelligent of the canine performers and earns a salary for his owner of several hundreds a week. He pays not the slightest attention to other dogs and is happiest when going through his routine. His master gets around $1,000 a week.

Another generation will remember Alf Loyal and His Dogs, especially the clown, a grotesquely shaven and pink beribboned black French poodle, called Zeppo. It was one of the most continuously employed acts in the amusement world, appearing either at the Hippodrome or in vaudevile in winter and with the circus in summer. If there were any weeks "at liberty", Loyal had to take his dogs daily to the Bryant rehearsal hall on Sixth avenue to put them through their routine or they would sicken and sometimes die.

Our town had a one-wagon dog and medicine show that toured Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky summers and wintered among us. Prof. Andy Spears was the impresario, and his wife was assistant. He appeared in slk hat and satin knee breeches with buckles and she rather, as Verne Porter would say, "on the embon-point side", waddled about in a scantily spangled gown, handing him hoops, ladders, balancing poles and other paraphernalia. Prof. Spears was a familiar figure with his high hat along our streets, but somehow no one in our town ever saw his trained dogs. The ladies of our town had little to do with Mrs. Spears. She was "show folks".

The Intelligentsia, Illuminati, Intellectuals and sundry Big I High Brows have passed up murder mysteries, diagramless cross word puzzles and even cryptograms to read "Astounding Stories". In the throes of brain fag they are reputedly great chirk-uppers. It is pseudo-science, all about interplanetary communication and giant germs and human insects, etc. Much of it is written by college professors under pen names, and genuine physicists, brokers and such.

As Literature of Escape it flits one farther than the utmost galecteal spaces and backward and forward in Time. The professors writing it get pin money and fun. Not many know that an astronomer in good standing has virtually to appeal to his co-workers on a basis of poverty to be allowed to write any popular discussion or the least speculative writings of he'll lose scientific caste.

I popped into a Woolworth during a Saturday night rush. And one counter fascinated me—the way a short order cook does. There was a detached girl evidently just a try-out for the evening, whose thoughts were not very commercial but rather on the boy friend picking her up later. There was a sudden concerted rush in her section with everybody clamoring for service—remindful of Bolero working up to brass. The newcomer in a flurry of confusion looked up at me quickly and inquired: "Did I pay you yet?" I said "No." Then she came back to reality, laughed, blushed and everything. Fun and frolic in a five and ten.

Taxpayers who filed personal property tax returns with the state revenue agents in the past few weeks are not yet through filing the returns, according to the county commissioners. The county return must be filed on a white form which the commissioners furnish.

It is true that the form made out by the taxpayer had a duplicate which was for county use, but these have gone to Harrisburg and will not be back for some time. Eventually they will get back to the county and the commissioners can charge the taxpayer, but a penalty will then be on.

Taxpayers who have filed returns with the state, especially those holders of large blocks of taxable securities are urged to file with the county and avoid a penalty that may run into money. The return can be made any day in the office of the county commissioners chief clerk, William A. Eakin.

The present session of the general assembly is proving to be less than highly popular with the sheriffs of the state, according to Sheriff Edward D. Pritchard. He attended a meeting of the legislative committee of the sheriffs' association on Sunday in Philadelphia when several bills now pending were up for discussion.

One bill would handicap the sheriff in the naming of special deputies to the point where in times of crises it would be almost impossible. There are several other bills in the legislative hopper which take a cut at the sheriffs and the boys don't seem to like it.

The spurt in dog licenses is noticed in the past few days in the office of County Treasurer Joseph H. Hartland, but there are still plenty of pooches that are not tagged. A tagless dog means a fined owner if John Mateer gets around to it, and he is gradually getting around to the citizens who have neglected to get tags for their dogs. A male dog license costs $1.10 and a female $2.10.

of solons. Laws tightening the penalty for book-making are on file, together with a proposal to license and regulate bookmakers, whose weekly "handle" has been estimated at millions in California. Failing in a move designed to put law enforcement agencies "on the spot" to enforce anti-bookie laws at Santa Anita during the current season, lawmakers seek to establish race-betting districts, controlled by the board of equalization, with the state receiving "breakage" and 12 per cent of the "take."

Drive Against Gambling Started

California Lawmakers Introduce Number Of Bills Against Gambling

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 23.—Anti-gambling fever has seized California's legislators.

A check today revealed that during the legislative session more than 100 bills aimed at horse-racing, slot machines, dog races, lotteries and marble pin games were filed.

While the majority of proposals seek to liberalize the state's racing and gambling laws, a large number of bills advocate tightening of existing laws and cover every conceivable form of gambling, both pro and con.

The bills are expected to prove the major battleground for the legislature, with indications pointing to a series of heated clashes between Liberals and Conservatives when the lawmakers reconvene March 1, following a constitutional recess.

Pari-Mutuels Target

The "take" of both state and track owners from the pari-mutuel "handle" is the chief target of legislative wrath, while innumerable "pork-barrel bills" seek to divert the state's share of the profits for special appropriations ranging from county fairs to old age pensions.

"Bookies" also come in for the ire

Townsend Trial For Contempt To Be Started Today

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—The trial of Dr. Frances E. Townsend, old age pension advocate, for contempt of the house of representatives opens in U. S. district court for the district of Columbia this afternoon.

Ironically, nine of the 12 jurors —one woman and 11 men— who were speedily chosen to sit in judgment upon the white-haired pension leader are comparatively young people.

As the trial got under way, opposing counsel reached a 2 point agreement which is expected to materially shorten proceedings.

It was agreed that Townsend did not refuse to answer any question put to him during the house committee investigation of his pension plan last May—the inquiry Townsend walked out on, subsequently being indicted for contempt—and that no question was pending before the committee when he took "French leave."

Vienna Choir Boys Delight Audience

Close Civic Music Concert Season With An Outstanding Performance

Closing the concert season for the New Castle Civic Music Association, the Vienna Choir Boys appeaerd in the Senior high school auditorium. The concert was easily the high spot of three concerts of unusual merit.

Perhaps the youth and attractive appearance of the twenty Viennese youngsters won the hearts of the audience before they sang a note. All little fellows between the ages of 10 and 12, they performed in a thoroughly enjoyable fashion, singing difficult A Cappella numbers with the ease and finish of adults. Their program was nicely varied, the A Cappella number being followed by a one-act Mozart opera, a group of folk songs and then for an encore, the always lovely "Blue Danube."

If we were marking the choir boys in appearance we would have to give them one hundred and about the same figure could stand for their singing. The one thing in particular that marked them was their almost flawless diction. Singing in the German tongue they won the acclaim of musicians who understood not only the rendition of the music, but the language as well. In short the Vienna Choir Boys were a success here. Their director, Victor Gomboz, has developed a choir of delightful precision and musical beauty. The Vienna Choir Boys as an organization is the oldest in the world, being organized in 1490 under Emperor Maximillian. Franz Schubert was once a member of the choir.

During an intermission Rev. J. J. McIlvaine, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, presented the cause of the Civic Music Association and urged support in the coming membership campaign.

In these mineral constituents, he added, soy bean flour far surpasses any of our common foods, such as cereals, legumes, vegetables, fruits, meats, nuts, milk and eggs. # Civil Service Hearing Today

Administration Forced Closer To Showdown On Civil Service Attitude

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Feb. 23.—Forcing the administration closer to a showdown on a hitherto unrevealed attitude—its stand on the highly controversial civil service issue — a public hearing was to be held today on the respective merits of civil service as it exists in Pennsylvania.

For the purpose of crystallizing public sentiment, an airing was to be given the proposal by Sen. Edward J. Thompson, D., Centre, creating a commission to set up a civil service system for all state employes.

And after the attitudes of private citizens, employers, employes and businessmen have been merged with those of the legislators, the commission will be placed on the floor of the upper chamber for final passage and the administration will be forced to show its hand.

Until then, there has been little indication as to Gov. George H. Earle's feeling on the "touchy" subject.

Defense Claims Building Safe

Testimony was still being taken today before Judge W. Walter Braham in the case of the City of New Castle against the heirs of Frederick Taylor. The city seeks to have a partially built brick building on Grove street declared a nuisance on the grounds that it is unsafe. Recently a portion of a wall fell and killed Mr. Taylor.

Today the defense put in testimony purporting to show that the structure was sound, that it was being built properly and that it would be structurally safe when completed.

Plea For Denominational Colleges Is Heard Monday

Dr. Galbreath Of Westminster Makes Stirring Address To Local Clergy

Ministers To Investigate Gambling And Alleged Houses Of Ill-Fame

In a fervent address at Monday's meeting of the New Castle Ministerial Association at the First Presbyterian church, Dr. R. F. Galbreath, president of Westminster College, made a strong plea for the denominational colleges and warned against the threat of laws that may be passed by the state to harm them, weakening their influence in the training of youth.

Westminter's head appealed to the ministers to help save the denominational college and urged that they give their support to this cause.

Dr. Galbreath was the principal speaker of the session. Dr. C. K. McGeorge, president of the association, presided over the program. The opening prayer was given by Dr. D. L. Ferguson. Rev. C. H. Hauger, in the absence of Rev. R. B. Withers, took over the duties of secretary.

Aroused By Gambling

One of the reports at the meeting was that of Rev. D. C. Schnebly, chairman of the law and order committee, in which it was stated that the members were aroused by gambling activities and houses of ill fame which are "apparently" being allowed to "run wide open," in certain districts of the city and that several of the committee men have been delegated to look into the matter.

Dr. C. B. Wingerd moved that the president and secretary arrange a schedule for the "ministers-exchange" on the morning of March 14 in connection with the city-wide preaching mission.

A representative of the Townsmen was present to make a check-up of tickets for the fathers and sons banquet on the 26th at the Cathedral.

Rabbi Norman Diamond stated that the offering at the brotherhood meeting in the senior high school totaled $26.93 and he turned that amount over to the secretary and treasurer of the Ministerial Association to be used in social service work.

Judge James A. Chambers will be the guest speaker at the next meeting, in two weeks, the program chairman, Rev. Chester T. R. Yeates announced. Rev Yeates formally introduced the Westminster president.

At the close of the address benediction was pronounced by Dr. C. H. Heaton.

'Trigger Men' Being Hunted

Two Notorious "Trigger Men" Put New York Leader On "Spot"

(International News Service)

HACKENSACK, N. J. Feb. 23—Two notorious "trigger men," described as hired killers, were sought today as the murderers of Norman Redwood, New York labor leader.

From a list of desperadoes drawn up by New York police, two Hackensack detectives and one from New York selected the names of this pair as the thugs who they want, and immediately rushed off to unrevealed destinations.

With this police activity under way, Samuel Rosoff, wealthy subway contractor, was prepared to appear in supreme court in New York to fight efforts of New Jersey authorities to bring him here for questioning regarding recent labor disputes involving himself and Redwood.

At the same time, attorneys for Max Friedman, an associate of Rosoff and a prisoner here in the county jail as a material witness, will try to have him released on a writ of habeus corpus. It was stated that if the courts order Friedman released, authorities will demand he put up bail of $50,000.

New Castle Doctor Traps "Flu" Germ

Hope for the prevention of influenza by vaccine is seen in an announcement from Rockefeller Institute, New York City and one of the men responsible for the discovery is Dr. Thomas Francis, son of Rev. and Mrs. Thomas Francis, of Craig St. With Dr T. P. Magill, also of Rockefeller Institute Dr. Francis has been engaged in research work for several years looking towards the isolation of the influenza baccillus and a vaccine to prevent the disease.

In his quest after the flu germ, Dr. Francis has traveled extensively in the United States, Europe and Puerto Rico. In the tests to perfect a vaccine the two scientists used 23 "human guinea pigs," most of them medical students in Cornell medical school in New York City.

In each of the 23 test cases the doctors reported full immunity against influenza and they are confident that a six months immunity after vaccination can be secured with the use of the vaccine. Arrangements are being made by Rockefeller Institute for widespread distribution of the vaccine throughout the country.

Dr. Francis is a graduate of the New Castle High school and of Allegheny College. Following his graduation from Allegheny he was graduated from the Yale Medical school. For one winter he was the personal physician of John D. Rockefeller in Florida. His work as a research scientist in quest of the flu germ has attracted the attention of medical men and of magazines over the country.

The discovery of a preventative for influenza is one of the greatest boons to humans discovered in years and the fact that one of the two discoverers is a native of New Castle is a matter of satisfaction here.

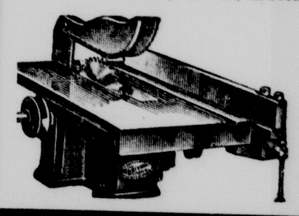

Because a man knows everybody's business it doesn't follow that he knows his own.

FIERCE FIGHTING IN SPANISH CIVIL WAR

Madrid Again Under Attack

Artillery And Aerial Bombardment Arouses Capital At Dawn

BOTH SIDES ISSUE VICTORY CLAIMS

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, Feb. 23.—While the fiercest fighting of the Spanish civil war progressed on many fronts, inhabitants of Madrid were awakened at dawn today by a heavy artillery and aerial bombardment of the capital.

The rebel barrage lasted nearly three hours and was believed to have emanated either from the university city sector or the Casa De Campo.

Meanwhile, Spanish rebels flatly denied Loyalist claims of success at Oviedo.

The rebels denied Loyalists had entered Oviedo, asserting insurgent positions there are "invincible."

At Salamanca rebel commanders issued a communique stating government troops were dislodged from the Calamoncha sector north of Madrid with numerous losses.

Violent Attacks

Violent Loyalist attacks on Escamplero and Rybelles were heavily repulsed, the communique added, while in the south Rebel troops consolidated their positions after failure of a government attack on Garnatilla.

Government officials in the capital claimed Loyalist positions in the Jarama sector to the southeast had been improved and rebel counter-attacks heavily repulsed.

Rebel planes staged an air raid on Alcala De Henares, but the number of victims or amount of damage was not revealed.

From Andumar came reports that Loyalist forces were pressing along the entire Cordova front toward Cadiz, breaking up the insurgent front line near Cordova and occupying strategic positions. Loyalists advanced to the heights dominating Montoro and entered the suburbs. These advices said.

Charge Espionage

Meanwhile, in Madrid, Alessandro Pistoles Amanzoni, 17-year-old son of the secretary of the former Italian air attache here, was sentenced to imprisonment for six years and a day by the "popular tribunal" on a charge of espionage.

Amanzoni was arrested in December. Officials accused him of possessing a plan of Madrid with military positions marked in a secret code. Loyalist officials stated that owing to his youth he was "given the benefit of extenuating circumstances."

In a radio broadcast from Seville, Rebel General Queipo De Llano said Leftist troops had maintained a fierce mass attack between Oviedo and Grados but were finally driven off with 4,000 casualties.

The insurgents claimed they did not lose a single position in this encounter.

In the south, rebels stated, government troops attacked Orgiva and Garnatilla without success. At the latter point, the insurgents declared, many of the Loyalist attackers were black Algerian troops.

Blind Man Brings Motorist To Bar

Blind Man Breaks Glasses Because Inconsiderate Driver Parks Across Sidewalk

(International News Service)

DENVER, Feb. 23.—The sensitive fingers of a blind man indirectly cost a motorist here a traffic fine recently.

The motorist, Earl Butler, was in the habit of parking his car in the front drive across the side walk. He never reckoned on the possibility of a blind man using the sidewalk.

Jess C. Emerson, 33, went out to take his customary afternoon stroll. He has been blind for 16 years. Of course, he couldn't see the car so he bumped into it, breaking his dark glasses.

Considerately he failed to report the violation the first time but the next day the car was parked in the same place. He carefully felt with his fingers the license numbers of the machine and then went home, with the numbers carefully memorized and reported the car.

Butler was given a traffic ticket. He promised to pay for the broken glasses.

Speculators Alarm British Leaders

Gambling In Base Metals Is Worry In Re-Armament Program

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Feb. 23.—Alarmed by gambling in base metals, which rose fast yesterday with the aid of European buying, the British government was fearful today lest continued rises put the estimated cost of its $7,500,000,000 rearmament program seriously out of gear.

Realization that this is likely to happen may compel the government to curb speculation, according to informed "city" opinion.

Responsible members of the metal exchange complained that under such spectacular trading as occurred yesterday, it was impossible to carry out genuine orders "in the present unhealthy state of the market."

They also expressed the opinion speculators would eventually "get "badly burned" in the present state of affairs. They pointed to many instances of serious losses in yesterday's copper and tin seesawing.

U. S.-Canadian Boundary Most Travelled In World

OTTAWA, Canada, Feb. 23.—Automobile tourist traffic to Canada during 1936 registered a gain of almost a half million cars. Figures compiled by the Department of National Revenue show that the number of foreign automobiles entered for touring purposes totalled 4,074,523 compared with 3,605,086 in 1935, an increase of 469,437. Automobiles entered for periods up to 48 hours totalled 2,280,265; automobiles entered for six months numbered 1,323.

Ontario retained its unchallenged lead among the provinces with 2,655,027 visiting automobiles, more than half the total movement. The three leading ports of entry—Windsor, Fort Erie and Niagara Falls—maintained their respective positions in 1936, all with increased traffic. At Windsor a total of 842,679 tourist automobile permits was issued, 597,416 for 48 hours, 245,212 for 60 days, and 51 for six months. Fort Erie issued 827,413 permits of which 659,453 were for 48 hours, 167,779 were for 60 days and 181 for six months. Next in order, Niagara Falls issued a total of 704,472 permits, 554,563 of which were for 48 hours, 149,892 for 60 days and 17 for six months.

Tourist traffic from Canada also increased the number of Canadian cars reported outwards for touring purposes during 1936 totalling 689,674 an increase over 1935 of 30,415.

The international boundary between the United States and Canada is the most travelled over in the world and the ever increasing volume of traffic handled emphasizes the simplicity of travel between these two countries.

Congress Shattered Peace Time Records In Session Of 1936

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON.—The year 1936 found congress shattering all peacetime records in huge appropriations, while sending the public debt soaring to a new world's record of $34,500,000,000.

It was the second session of the Seventy-fourth Congress starting last January 3 and lasting until June 20. Its appropriations in that period totalled $10,069,710,000, which on top of appropriations at its first session in 1935, gave it a grand total of more than twenty billion dollars for the two years.

Marked for constitutional death on January 3, the Seventy-fourth will go down in history for breaking spending records. It sought in a way to meet the staggering costs of unnemployment relief measures by passing a new tax bill in its closing days—a bill drawn to raise about $800,000,000 annually in new taxes. It carried the new tax on undistributed corporation income that provoked widespread criticism from business leaders.

One of its outstanding acts was to authorize immediate cash payment of world war adjusted service compensation certificates in bonus bonds and cash. This gave 3,500,000 World war veterans a total of around $3,500,000,000 in bonds that could be converted into cash at the nearest postoffices.

Says Roosevelt's Plan Would Doom Democracy

(International News Service)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 23.—Democracy is doomed if President Roosevelt's supreme court revision is carried through, Frederick H. Stinchfield, president of the American Bar Association, said in an address Monday.

Declaring that he was not speaking lightly, he said:

"I mean what I say—Roosevelt's plan would destroy the supreme court, and from that destruction would come fundamental changes in the constitution."

He declared that all the other judiciary reforms proposed by the president are "the camouflage that conceals the weapon beneath."

"It is the violation of the supreme court I speak of," Stinchfield said. "I speak of those six new judges selected will be those whose views indicate with utter directness their willingness and intention to support the laws which congress, under instructions of the administration, has passed or shall pass.

"And, if perchance, some of the judges now sitting, heart-stricken by the president's proposal, should resign, hopeless of sustaining the constitution, the proportionate majority for the administration would be still further decreased."

Dominican Republic has given its chief executive the right to ban the importation of motion pictures, phonograph records, drawings, photographs and newspapers containing criticisms or representations offensive to the government or officials.

OUST THAT COLD

—Roots and All—Give It No Chance to Sprout Anew!

Take no cold lightly! The so-called "common cold" is often the start of more serious trouble—flu and pneumonia, for example.

Treat a cold to rout it, not merely to subdue it!

Depend on no half-way measures. A cold, being an internal infection, must be got at from the inside.

Treat a cold with a cold preparation, not with a medicine good for all kinds of ailments.

The wise treatment is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Expressly For Colds!

Bromo Quinine is a cold tablet, made expressly for the treatment of colds.

It is also internal treatment and of four important effects.

First, Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, a desirable step in the treatment of colds.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

The Action Called For

These are the four effects a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain.

The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

Be wise—play safe! The moment you feel a cold coming on, go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine.

Begin taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. That procedure will often break up a cold in 24 hours.

Bromo Quinine contains nothing harmful and is safe to take. Ask for, and insist upon, Grove's Bromo Quinine. The cost is small, but the stake is large.

SO MUCH FOR SO LITTLE!

"I'm a telephone salesman and there's nothing I'd rather sell than telephone service. Why? Because nothing gives you so much for so little as a telephone. It can save you time and trouble . . . run your errands . . . do your shopping. It can protect your family in case of sickness and save your home in case of fire. It keeps you in touch with friends and family in town or away from home. It opens the door to business opportunities because people can reach you quickly and easily.

"And it puts your name in the telephone directory!

"So it seems to me that I'm doing people a real service by pointing out how much a telephone can do for them and how little it really costs when you consider its many advantages."

You can have a telephone in your home for less than a dime a day. Just call the Business Office—it's a free call—and say "I want a telephone." Or ask any telephone employee.

Your Income Tax In A Nutshell

DEPRECIATION ALLOWANCES

The amount to be recovered by depreciation is the cost of the property, if acquired by purchase after February 28, 1913. If acquired by purchase prior to that date, the basis is the cost of the property less depreciation sustained prior to March 1, 1913, or the value on March 1 1913, whichever is greater.

The proper allowance for depreciation is that amount which should be set aside for the taxable year in accordance with a reasonably consistent plan (not necessary a uniform rate), whereby the aggregate amount so set aside, plus the salvage value will at the end of the useful life of the property equal the cost or other basis of the property.

The depreciation rate of a building is not based upon the number of years it will stand before being condemned and razed, but on the number of years it will remain habitable of serviceable for the purpose for which constructed.

If the taxpayer builds a new building, the period over which depreciation may be claimed begins at the time the building is completed and capable of being used. Buildings under construction are not subject to a depreciation allowance.

If it is clearly shown that, because of economic or other conditions, property must be abandoned at a date prior to the end of its normal useful life, so that depreciation deductions alone are insufficient to return the cost or other basis, a reasonable deduction for obsolescence may be allowed in addition to depreciation. No deduction for obsolescence is permitted because in the opinion of the taxpayer the property may become obsolete at some future date.

ADULTS INVOLVED IN MOST CRASHES

(International News Service)

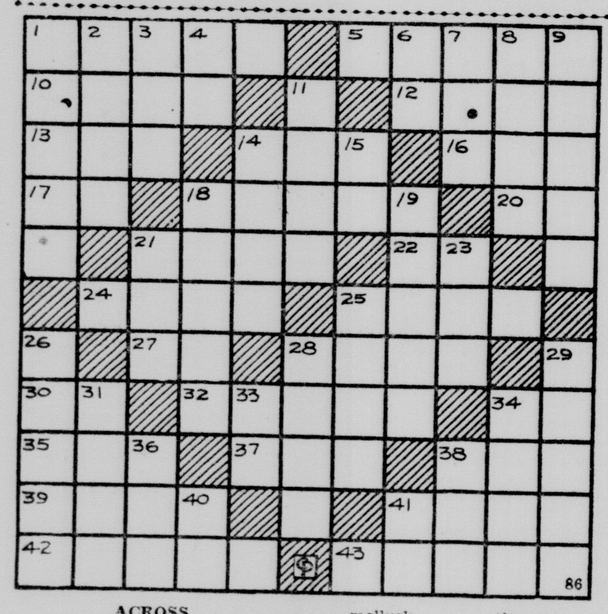

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—Youth was found less at fault than maturity in Pittsburgh's highest automobile death rate since 1931 according to the annual report by the Bureau of Traffic planning department of public safety.

Drivers under 20 years of age were responsible for only 59 per cent of the 146 deaths in 1936.

The death toll, though well-below the 172 deaths of 1931 and 198 of 1930, was 8.1 per cent over that of last year.

Acting traffic engineer D. M. McNeil, who prepared the report, said this increase was roughly proportional to the increased use of automobiles.

Court Plan Good For Mails

Citizens Show Tremendous Interest In Proposed Change Of Supreme Court

VOLUME OF MAIL UNPRECEDENTED

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.
By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—The average American is, to a surprising extent, more interested in the United States supreme court's fate than I, at least, would have expected.

It is understandable that lawyers, for example, should be violently alert to such suggestions as President Roosevelt's for liberalization of the high tribunal's membership. Big businessmen of course are wide awake to all its implications. So are college professors; students in general. Labor and farm leaders naturally sense everything that the presidential plan means.

These folk are especially trained to grasp the significance of a proposal as the White House tenant's for reorganization of the nation's judicial machinery.

But I would have supposed it would be too technical greatly to excite our average.

HEAVY MAIL

I could not have made a worse guess.

The volume of mail and telegrams received by senators and representatives apropos the president's supreme court message has been absolutely unprecendented.

I have had about a bushel basketful of letters on the subject myself.

The bulk of these communications are not from highbrows but from the rank-and-file of citizens (and citizenesses). They are expressed in remarkably well-in-formed fashion, too.

We are a better educated people than I had thought.

I believe also that we have astonished most of our legislators.

UP ON CONSTITUTION

I did not realize that so many of us were familiar with the federal constitution.

We must have streaked it, on short notice, for works of reference, to read up.

The U. S. constitution, I would bet, has been a best-seller, in recent weeks.

The overwhelming verdict, at the outset, unquestionably was against the presidential plan.

STILL CONSERVATIVE?

My notion is that this is because we still are a conservative country—opposed, in principle, to change. We are not so conservative as we were, but tradition counts yet. It counts more in some spots than in others, but apparently it counts considerably everywhere.

Anyway, there's nowhere, as indicated by congressmen's letters from home, that supreme court additions have popular support. In most constituencies it is opposed vehemently.

This is not to say that a constitutional amendment is not demanded. It is. But not the additions.

STRONG ANTI-TREND

As spokesman for the American Federation of Labor, William Green has expressed himself pro-presidentially. So has John L. Lewis, as head of his rival industrial set-up.

Their utterances have not made much difference, if the home folk's correspondence signifies.

L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, has proclaimed himself anti-presidentially. That has not seemed to make much difference, either.

The rule has been, from the first, that lawmakers from working class bailiwicks have had a larger proportion of anti-presidential mail than those from the rural sections. Nor does it appear, in either case, to be manufactured sentiment—"canned" letters. The overwhelming majority of these read as if they were composed by the very individuals who signed them.

I know of only a few legislators who say their correspondence is at least 50-50 pro-presidential. The rest report an anti-presidential trend of 1 to 10 or 20 or 100 anti.

A SHIFT COMING?

Nevertheless, plenty of lawmakers from anti-presidential realms are afraid to come out anti-presidentially.

They are fearful of a shift in popular feeling. They are apprehensive of a landslide the other way, if they commit themselves. They suspect, in short, that the president will prove, as the situation develops itself, to have been a craftier politician than they are—that he will be in an ultimate majority.

Some have the courage of their convictions, but courage is not characteristic of politicians.

And—gosh! but they are respectful of President Roosevelt's political acumen.

PRESIDENT'S PROBLEM

President Roosevelt, by his overwhelming election, is spoken of as having had a tremendous "mandate" to reform the country.

Well, he tries to reform it, by legislation. The supreme court blocks his reform. Thereupon he argues that supreme court reform necessarily is involved in his "mandate". "No," say the conservatives, "because supreme court reform never was mentioned as one of his campaign principles."

In other words:

He cannot reform unless he can reform what, constitutionally, he cannot reform.

What is his "mandate"?

Eggs Scrambled On Ice; Just New Engineering Trick

BALTIMORE, Feb. 23.—Lightning—200,000 man-made volts—snaps through the air with a machine-gun-like crack, and eggs are scrambled on ice in 30 seconds at the engineering exhibition at Johns Hopkins University.

A box filled with ice is one of the most popular displays. A frying pan containing eggs is placed on top of the "refrigerator" and the eggs are thoroughly scrambled in half a minute.

What the astonished spectators do not see is a coil placed beneath the ice, which sets up a high variation electrical field, having no effect on the ice, but heating the metallic frying pan.

Three Found Dead In Suicide Pact

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23.—In a suicide pact, a middle-aged father and mother asphyxiated themselves and their mentally weak, 26-year-old son, police reported after a four hour investigation, Monday.

The trio, Albert Freidmann, 52, a toolmaker and amateur artist; his wife, Anna, 50, and their son, Alphonse, were found across one bed in their home in the Germantown section.

The room had been carefully sealed with sheets and pillow cases, police said. The bodies lay close together, under a gas jet. Mrs. Freidmann and her son were in their night clothes; Freidmann was fully dressed.

Rotary Here Will Not Protest Plan To Split District

Matter Discussed At Weekly Meeting At The Castleton On Monday

The New Castle Rotary club will not protest Rotary International's new proposal to re-district the 69 clubs of Rotary District 33, the district of which it has long been a part.

The club, however, after a general discussion of the plan at its weekly luncheon in The Castleton Monday, moved to have Beaver county included in the new District 33-B in which New Castle will be located, providing Beaver county Rotarians wish to have it that way. Under the offered plan of International, the Beaver group is in District 33-A.

Unless three-fourths of the present district 33 clubs file their protest to International at once on the change, District 33-A, with 40 clubs and 2,000 Rotarians, and District 33-B, with the New Castle and 28 other clubs and 900 Rotarians, will become official Rotary International units on March 15.

Pro and con arguments on the redistricting filled the noon meeting Monday, but at the close the Rotarians concurred in the recommendation of a special study committee, composed of Attorney George W. Muse, J. Lee McFate and Jacob F. Rentz, that no protest be made.

The Rotarians also formally congratulated Bernard N. Hanlon, one of their members, upon his new appointment to the leadership of the Knights of Columbus in Pennsylvania.

President Ray S. Tannehill presided over the day's discussion.

Plans Completed For Union Hi-Y Dad-Son Banquet

Two Hundred Expected At Annual Affair In Union High School

A group of dads will be indeed proud Thursday evening of this week, when they are the guests of their sons, at a Fathers' and Sons' banquet in the Union high school building.

The banquet, sponsored by the Union Hi-Y club, is an annual affair, and upwards to 200 persons are expected to be in attendance. Dr. J. J. McIlvaine will be the principal speaker of the evening, and Dr. Emerson J. Davis will serve as toastmaster for the occasion.

Promptly at 6:30, the mothers of the boys will serve a banquet in the auditorium of the school. Mrs. James Elmore will supervise the activities of the kitchen and food preparation.

According to Jay G. Rudolph, director of the Hi-Y group, an interesting program has been arranged for the hours following the banquet. Pep singing by the entire group will be used to add gaiety to the affair.

Sanitorium For Mercer County Is Being Urged

(International News Service)

SHARON, Pa., Feb. 23.—The Mercer County Medical Association and political leaders today joined in urging upon Dr. Edith MacBride-Dexter, state secretary of health, and F. Clair Ross, state treasurer, that the proposed $2,475,000 state tuberculosis sanitorium, be constructed in Mercer county.

Both are natives of Mercer county which has not had a state medical institution since 1923 when officials withdrew aid from the Mercer Cottage Hospital. The county is said to have several good sites for a sanitorium. A survey made 10 years ago showed excellent climatic conditions, according to sponsors of a local sanitorium. The county is one of the few in the western section of the state which does not have a state institution.

Will Leaves $20,000 To Buy Ice Cream

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23—Mrs. Clementine Farr Duff, wealthy Washington philantropist and former Philadelphian, will be remembered a long time by patients and employes of the Washington Home for Incurables.

Not only did she provide handsomely for relatives, servants and a number of Philadelphia and other charitable organizations in her will, it was revealed yesterday, but—

She also left a $20,000 trust fund to buy ice cream—in "generous quantities"—for inmates and workers of the home. Specifying that the income from the fund should be used in no other manner, Mrs. Duff expressed the wish that this favorite lifetime "hobby" of hers be continued after her death.

Bequests totaling more than $1,000,000 were contained in the will, including $20,000 in trust to her chauffeur, Edgar D. Russell and $15,000 to the latter's wife.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—Coal traffic on the Monongahela river has smashed all records since the boom days of 1929, latest reports show.

Conversely, however, coal production in January in district coal mines came slightly short of record highs reached in December.

Franklin High Trips Mahoning By Score 13-10

Franklin High Must Now Defeat Washington To Take City Junior High Title

CIAZZA, RICE AND ADAMO STAR

Ben Franklin Junior High school basketball team stepped back in'o the championship limelight yesterday afternoon at the Franklin High court by administering a 13 to 10 defeat to the title hopes of the scrappy little Mahoning High quinte'. The Franklins meet George Washington next week in a game that may give them the City Junior High title.

From the time Jimmy Ride, the Franklin High forward jumped in a field goal in the first few seconds of the game until the end of the fray the Franklin High team held the lead over their rivals from the Seventh Ward. The end of the first period found the Wallacemen with a substantial 6 to 1 lead.

Franklin Leads

The end of the first half it was 8 to 3 with the East Siders still in the van, through the fineplaying of Ciazza, Rice and Christopher. The Mahonings could not get near the basket in the first half.

In the third period the Cowmeadow between halves lecture did some good and the Mahonings soon closed the gap to one point, it being a 9 to 8 in favor of the Franklins at the end of the third stanza. The Franklins were denied a field goal in this period. Adamo and Howard supplied the points for the Mahonings.

Mahonings Close Gap

Play in the fourth and final period with Franklin one point to the good became fast and furious. The Franklins could not get a field goal to go in the hoops, while Mahoning made one field goal, a long shot by Zarilla. Rice, Ciazza and Christopher supplied fouls to the Franklin total in the final period that gave the East Siders their coveted victory.

The Franklin victory atoned for the setback 17 to 15 that the Mahonings gave them last week. If anything the Mahonings were just a little overconfident yesterday. For one thing they had a hard time to penetrate the Franklin zone defense. Of course Franklin didn't look any too good either at field goal making, having four, against three for their adversaries.

Ciazza-Rice Stars

In passing out boquets we must choose this youngster Ciazza who had eight of the Franklin points and young Jimmy Rice, playing his first game as a regular for Franklin at forward, and he supplied three of the points. Christopher played a fine guarding game as did Horney, while Miloweski at center had a lot of fight and helped out quite a bit.

Adamo was the only Mahoning player able to get more than two points. His total was five. Franklin High held the vaunted Chuck Evans scoreless from the field, and also failed to allow such stars as Castrucci and Piccirillo to score from the field.

It was a fine game and drew another packed house to the Franklin court. The game was well handled by Nickie Ross.

St. Nicholas Team Beaten By Farrell Quint

The New Castle St. Nicholas church team lost a tough 27 to 23 decision at Farrell to the St. Michaels in a Greek Catholic Penn-Ohio league match.

The lead changed hands many times in the game. It was anybody's game right down to the last minute of play.

Johnnie Teplica and Steve Teplica led the locals in scoring, the former playing a whale of a game to score 14 of the points for the locals. Coach Uram was well pleased with the showing of the St. Nicks.

ENGLISH MILLIONAIRE PROMOTER IS HERE

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Along Broadway today we find . . . Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley . . . England's millionaire sports promoter . . . owner of White City and Harringay stadiums . . . here to sign up Fred Perry and Ellsworth Vines . . . for a tour of the tight little isle . . . General says the tennis lads can make themselves a jolly little fortune in just a few weeks. . .

Here's Sid Hull . . . London fight matchmaker . . . trying to toss a monkey wrench into the Bob Pastor-Max Baer machinery . . . Hull says he's going to show the local boxing commission tomorrow . . . that he has a contract on Baer's services for a bout with the winner of the Tommy Farr-Ben Foord fight . . . which takes place March 15. . . Baer is supposed to fight in Lunnon May 6. . . Hull says a Baer-Pastor fight would be a violation of his contract. . .

And here's Joe Smith . . . Tommy Loughran's manager . . . angling with Jimmy Johnston . . . for Tommy to meet Pastor in case Baer is ruled out . . . "or," sez Joe, Tommy will tackle Baer and remember Baer fought Tommy 10 rounds one time and hasn't hit him yet. . ." Meanwhile Baer has started training . . . at Madam Bey's camp . . . down in the wilds of New Jersey . . . and far, far away from the Madzas. . .

Bike Racer Injured

Norman Hill, veteran bike pusher . . . has ridden his last six day grind . . . He's slowly recuperating from a broken back . . . suffered in his last race in Buffalo. . .

And Mike Jacobs is going to try to book Fred Apostoli and Fred Steele . . . for the middleweight title . . . Mike has in mind an outdoor shot in May . . . and Apostoli says he's willing to give Steele $25,000 for a shot at the title. . .

Mike . . . in a dreamy mood . . . also murmured something about taking Joe Louis to Europe . . . late next summer . . . for a bout with Gunnar Barlund. . .

Mike Can't Lose

Mike also injects a humorous touch in the Louis Schmeling-Braddock mis-up . . . by saying that if the Garden sues Braddock and collects for violation of contract . . . he, Mike, is entitled to half what the Garden collects. . .

"Looks like I simply can't lose," opines Mike . . . "and no matter who fights whom I wind up with the champion. . ."

Glenn Cunningham doesn't care how soon the track season ends . . . A throat ailment interferes with his breathing in those tough mile races.

Set Up Moan

And makers of boxing gloves are moaning . . . because the New York commission has ruled all gloves must hereafter be stuffed with curly hair . . . instead of the soft straight hair . . . heretofore in vogue . . . the curly stuff is horse hair and is more costly than the straight goat's hair . . . The glove makers insist fighters will be cut up more with the horse-hair stuffed gloves.

But Matchmaker Tom McArdle of the Hippodrome . . . recalling the good old days when he used to pay main eventers $35 for a ten-round fight . . . says fighters ought to be willing to take a little extra punishment for the kind of money they get these days. . .

Pitt Campus Buzzes, Sutherland-Harrison Feud In "Spotlight"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 23—A note of evident relief pervaded the Pitt campus today now that the long smouldering feud between head football coach Dr. John Bain (Jock) Sutherland and W Don Harrison, the athletic director, has been dragged out into the open.

Some evidences of student reaction were awaited today as classes resumed after the George Washington holiday.

Sutherland admitted the existence of differences between himself and Harrison and Harrison did not deny such a situation. The prospects were that the whole controversy will be threshed out at a meeting of the athletic council of the University early next month.

Meanwhile it was learned that Ted Dailey, star end at Pitt in 1930, '31 and '32, has been offered a post as end coach but is withholding his decision until the present squabble is settled. Also came the disquieting news to Pitt fans that there will be Pitt-Notre Dame game in 1938. But, Harrison said he hopes for a resumption soon after that.

Too Tight Fisted

Sutherland's resentment against Harrison was said to arise from the latter's tight-fisted financial methods in bossing the stadium. This policy, it was said, resulted in the departure of most of Sutherland's coaching staff, including Bill Kern and Eddie Baker who went to Carnegie Tech; Eddie Hirshberg who went to Dartmouth and the withdrawal of Dr. Ralph Daugherty. Another story was that Sutherland, although head coach, was not consulted when Harrison arranged for the Panthers to appear at the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day in California.

Another story cropped out to the effect that Harrison was so interested in black ink for the stadium books that he refused to sanction expenses for a scouting trip to Notre Dame for Bill Kern, and Kern Sutherland's smartest strategist, had to borrow a ride with a friend, it was reported.

Different Temperaments

In addition, the two men are of vastly different temperaments and personalities and yet are forced to work close together. Harrison is more of the dictatorial type, who likes to boss with a firm hand, and who realizes keenly he was put in his present job to bring the stadium over to the black side of the ledger. Lutherland is tight-lipped, little spoken and a typical Scotchman. To him football is more than a game, it is loyalty in action and perhaps were he not so loyal to his coaching aides and the boys on the team he might not find himself in the present situation.

Still Wrangling Over Big Fight

Either Braddock And Louis Or Barristers Will Battle It Out In Chicago

WILL THEY FIGHT? WHO CAN TELL

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—That the world's heavyweight championship this summer will and must wind up being a battle of the barristers was practically ordained today as promoter Mike Jacobs issued one statement, designed to avoid any "misunderstanding," and Madison Square Garden issued another promising to sue everybody in sight. The latter, issued exclusively to the writer, spoke of suing Jacobs, James J. Braddock, who plans to break his garden contract for a Schmeling fight by meeting Joe Louis in Chicago on June 22; Sheldon Clark, the Chicago stadium corporation and, in legal verbiage, all and sundry.

Cannot Be Stopped

Moreover, there was the understanding, intimated but not clearly stated, that the Chicago fight was going on with the advice and consent of the attorney general's office of the state of Illinois.

"The Braddock-Louis match will go through in Chicago as scheduled on June 22," said Jacobs' statement yesterday, "and I am advised that nothing lawfully can stop this match."

The above, I might explain, is understood to be the opinion of the attorney general's office of Illinois. It is a slightly confusing opinion to one who admittedly knows nothing about the law, except that it is a very grievous offense to park overtime. But in the state of Illinois it is apparent that the traffic laws are different.

Phil Brubaker May Quit Ring

Second Knockout In 17 Days Is Too Much For Promising Coast Heavyweight

International News Service Sports Writer

By HAROLD HEROUX

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—Phil Brubaker, the handsome, erstwhile "fighting parson," today sat at his farm in Dinuba and pondered this question:

"Shall I quit the ring forever?"

Burbaker, the 22-year-old former Divinity school student who rose to be the West's No. 1 prospective challenger for the heavyweight crown, was kayoed by Andre Lenglet of France here again last night.

In a surprising upset, Lenglet kayoed Brubaker 17 days ago in the third round. That was the first knockout ever suffered by the promising Californian.

In Second Round

Last night, before 8,500 excited fans, Lenglet did a quicker job, after 1 minute and 15 seconds of fighting in the second round.

"I don't want to say right now that I'll quit or that I'll try to regain my spot in the fight game," Brubaker said. "I want time to think this question over.

"I still think I may be able to go places in the ring. However, I should be convinced that I'm not good enough for Lenglet."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Jackie Wilson, Pittsburgh, who fought Ross Fields here, captured a 10-round decision from Mike Belloise, recognized as the featherweight champion in several states, at Pittsburgh last night. In another 10 round bout Fred Lenhart won the award over Red Bruce.

Fred Perry, British net player who deserted the professional ranks to play exhibitions with Ellsworth Vines already has fattened his bank account $30,000 and indications are he will have amassed an additional $20,000, before the tour ends.

Freddie Steele, middleweight champion, said at Pittsburgh last night he is willing to give Teddy Yarosz, former middleweight champion, a crack at the title he once held. Teddy lost the crown to Babe Risko from whom Steele got the title. Steele has defeated Risko three times.

Richard K. Mellon, of Pittsburgh, scored a double victory in the Springdale, S. C. course races yesday. His Escape III took the feature race. Escape III went ahead on the next to last jump. Pool Box, another Mellon entry, took the Cool Spring event.

Waynesburg defeated Miami U in a mat meet at Wayesburg last night 21 to 9. Fairy Hill, a 14 to 1 shot, took the $50,000 Santa Anita derby yesterday....There will be no Pitt-Notre Dame grid game in 1938, according to an announcement by Athletic Director W. Don Harrison, of Pitt.

No Vacation!

Blackie Caldwell

When Blackie Caldwell, star athlete of the University of Alabama, isn't hustling around as a halfback, he's galloping here and there as a guard on the basketball team. He's an outfielder on the baseball team, too.

Some Lines From Yesteryear

Several days ago former featherweight champion Johnny Kilbane met Young Zahnizer here. They fought here in 1909. "Here's the boy who gave me the hardest fight I had in my early days," said Johnny . . . The fight went nine rounds in the Coliseum. Battling Terry, boxing under the name of Gene Rose, was Kilbane's second opponent here . . . Bob Whaley, former sheriff, was one of baseball's pathfinders. He was a member of the original Neshannocks. He is yet interested in baseball . . . Hayden Evans, former local high gridder, now is a football coach at Orange, N. J. . . . In fact, New Castle is quite well represented in the coaching field at different schools. Harvey Harman is head coach at the University of Pennsylvania, where he is assisted by Alex Foxx, both former stars at Pitt . . . Clark McClelland, basketball star here and at Slippery Rock Teachers college, is coaching at Roaring Springs, Pa. . . . Remember Fritz Kuhl, a few years back, who could throw a slow ball with a high degree of efficiency. As a matter of fact, Fritz could probably be accused of causing a number of baseball players to suffer back injuries, the way they tried to murder that slow ball and just missed. . . . Lefty Morrison, who migrated here from Ellwood City, was no mean forkhandler in his day and pitched for some good teams around this district. Tom Gibson was the town's leading heavyweight amateur wrestler along about wartime. Tom met an untimely end when he was accidentally electrocuted. He was also a good catcher and played with a number of strong teams about the city.

TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILI BRAUCHER

Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Who said the vaudeville game is dead? It lives in armories, halls and theaters from Passamaquoddy to Pasadena on nights when ths rasslers ply their Thespian trade.

Red Shadows, monocled Englishmen, hairy apes, stout-muscled Irish "crushers", Mesopotamian manmaulers, headlockers de luxe, former college tackles, slugging referees—all these are part of the wrestling show as it is rendered these fine evenings. And on alternate Tuesdays there are stretcher-bearers, physicians, club-swinging police and even little old ladies in black to help out.

It's a rough, tough show in which there are definite roles for villains, heroes and clowns. It thrives on violence and foul play, real or simulated. The rough-house nature of the rumpus brings crowds to their feet, whether they are among the many who think the mat game is just fun or the few who believe it's all strictly on the up and up.

Ah! Sweet Mysteries!

In the Pacific northwest the sensation for months was a masked "mystery man" who came into the ring clad in a vivid red hood. When Pat Fraley, Nebraska Irishman, tore the hood from his head, disclosing 212-pound Pob Hansen of Toronto, the customers went wild. Another man in a red mask popped up to take the original "mystery man's" place. The second terror finally was unmasked as sad-faced Sam Leathers, from Winlock, Wash. The masked man gag is as old as the game itself. In the gas-lit halls where William Muldoon heaved his mighty frame it worked, too. The fans ate it up then, and they love it now.

Another ancient gag of vaudeville is the foppish Britisher. That one still flourishes likewise. A gent named Patrick (Lord Lansdowns) Finnegan strolled into the Hollywood Legion bowl, his monocle and golden slippers capturing the popular disdain. Along came Gentleman Danny McShain, a cruel, cold, calculating Texan, to grind Lord Lansdowne into the ground with a piledriver hold. Lord Lansdowne was borne tenderly from the ring on a stretcher. There were tears and jeers.

The behemoth element still is in there grunting. Man Mountain Dean, bewhiskered 295-pounder with seven separate and distinct stomachs, has returned to tread the boards after a six-month vacation. He flattened the giant Cherokee Indian Jules Strongbow to delight the good people of Los Angeles.

The Rampant Referee

Cleveland has been agog over the brutalities inflicted upon the pachyderms by a hard-boiled referee—one Ernie (Blimp) Maddock. On a recent evening Bad Dutch Heffner was plying his sinister tactics upon fair-haired Danny Winters, darling of the damozels, when the Blimp interrupted the cruel mayhem. Enraged, Bad Dutch picked up the Blimp and administered a beautiful back body drop—but he reckoned wrong The Blimp arose, drew back for a flying start and hurled his body head first into the pit of Bad Dutch's stomach. Darling Danny took advantage of the situation to pin the prostrate Heffner, and the romping referee quickly raised his hand in victory. A little old lady in bleak leaped upon a chair, chattering in glee.

These are just a few of the acts, ladies and gentlemen. But they help to give you an idea that vaudeville is not dead after all.

During a recent gale in Scotland a cage of vultures at the Edinburgh zoo was turned inside out, freeing all the birds.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESFEALL

Sometimes we hear things that strike us as funny . . . sometimes these things are better if nothing is said about them . . . we feel that you people are entitled to a few good laughs so we are breaking a weak link in our chain . . . here is a little episode that Carl Paisley thinks is a scream . . . First we will introduce our subject . . . Daniel H. Treloar Jr., one of our outstanding young business men of New Castle . . . it seems that Dan came home from a dance the other night and when he went to take off his trousers he found that instead of his tux trousers, he had on his business suit trousers . . . they were dark, but a thin red stripe made up the pattern . . . it was a total surprise to Dan and no one noticed the breach . . . it just shows to go ya that it is a mistake to dress for a dance . . . Dan it seems was out of town on business the day of the dance and just had time on his return to dress . . . you know how it is getting into a tux, well everyone has about the same trouble . . . Dan got excited and reached for the wrong trousers . . . his dear friends thought maybe he was minus a pair of tux trousers so they are taking up a collection for a new pair. See Carl Paisley.

Do you remember when it was the custom to set aside a certain day of each year and on that day the government was run by boys . . . Y. M. C. A. or Boy Scout boys . . . A town was run by a certain boy and all the offices were taken by boys . . . it even went as far as the Governor of states . . . those were the good old days . . . yes in deed . . . there was only one thing wrong with that arrangement . . . they forgot to take the boys out of office.

Now for the mails . . . The Bruce Party, Lakeland, Fla. . . . We are sorry to disagree with you again but the weather here has been fine . . . although we are still wearing top coats we are looking forward to an early spring. It won't be long till the cherry blossoms are out —in fact we heard they were out . . . but that is only a rumor . . . Thanks for the card.

Heavy Trading In First Hour

Several Factors Affect Market During Morning Session

By LESLIE GOULD
International News Service
Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—The stock market broke sharply today with the ticker falling three minutes behind, after being sustained at the start by a bulge in metal shares.

Official action by the British government to curb the flow of investment funds to this country, with requests made to London brokerage houses to curtail purchases of securities here, was the prime factor in the heavy selling.

Trading in the first hour was the heaviest in months, as blocks running to 40,000 shares changed hands. Losses ran to four points outside of metals, weakness being centered principally in steels, motors and rails.

Chrysler, opening a half-hour late, sold at 126½ for a loss of 3⅝ points, then quickly dropped to 126. U. S. Steel tumbled more than three points before meeting support and Bethlehem slumped about three points. General Motors lost more than a point.

Park Utah jumped 1⅛ to 7½ on an opening transaction of 40,000 shares. American Zinc reached 19 on a block of 10,000 shares, Patino spurted two on a sale of 5,000 and Anaconda almost a point.

Losses in carriers ran to over a point in Northern Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific, Chesapeake & Ohio and Great Northern. Several "blue-chips" were hard hit. DuPont tumbled close to three points, while American Telephone and Westinghouse Electric each slipped about a point.

Phillips Petroleum dipped more than a point and Standard of Jersey a little less. Aviations were mixed and quiet. Utilities, rubbers and amusements lost some ground.

Bonds moved downward, with industrials weak. Grains improved moderately. Cotton was steady.

Defense Closing In Somerset Case

State Trooper Leaves Stand After Long Testimony In Own Defense

ADMITS MAKING MIS-STATEMENT

By DICK SHANER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

COURTHOUSE, Somerset, Pa., Feb. 23.—The defense in the "third degree" murder trial of state trooper Stacey Gunderman sped to a close here today after one of the most amazing court sessions in Pennsylvania history.

Gunderman, the strapping six-foot state trooper left the stand after admitting under a pounding cross-examination by Attorney General Charles J. Margiotti that he had made a misstatement in first explaining to his superior how Frank C. Monaghan, 64, died in the Bertillon room of the Fayette county courthouse while being questioned about the slashing of County Detective John C. Wall.

Waves Report Before Him

Waving before him the report in which Gunderman stated over his signature to Corp. Joseph Conwell of the state police that Monaghan was not abused while questioned, Margiotti demanded:

"You gave this statement to your superior as the truth?"

"Well," Gunderman said, eyeing the attorney general and special prosecutor coldly, "I had to make some kind of a statement. I knew there was a warrant out for my arrest. I didn't know what to do."

"Didn't you know that when you commit an act of self defense you have nothing to fear?"

"I didn't know then."

Previously, the courtroom seethed with excitement as Gunderman demonstrated before the jury how he flung the elderly Monaghan over his head by Jiu Jitsu when, he asserted, Monaghan attacked him from behind.

He gave the jury a description of how he asserted he was forced to subdue Monaghan and in almost perfect detail his testimony supplied an answer to the manner in which Monaghan could have suffered the splintered jawbone, the fractured nose, the torn ear, the 11 broken ribs, the 50 or more abrasions, the external and internal hemorrhages and the numerous lacerations and and bruises shown at the autopsy.

"Didn't you know that state police stand back of their officers in self defense?" Margiotti continued but—John J. Duggan, Jr chief defense counsel, interposed an objection and was sustained by supreme court justice George W. Maxey.

"Well, why didn't you write out the same statement you say you later gave to Corporal Conwell?" the attorney general demanded.

"I was thinking it over," Gunderman explained. "When Corporal Conwell told me you were in town and not satisfied with the report, I told him."

"Wouldn't Talk To Me"

"But, you wouldn't talk to me?"

"I had advice from counsel not to tell you anything."

Margiotti then read sentence by sentence Gunderman's original report to his superior, asking after each sentence: "Was that true?"

"Didn't you write in this report, "at no time during the questioning was Frank Monaghan abused or touched'?"

"I'm the only one who touched him," said Gunderman, the first of seven men indicted for murder in the case to be brought to trial.

"Well, answer yes or no." Margiotti demanded and after an objection by Duggan the attorney general continued to pound on that point, finally forcing an admission that he had made such a statement from the witnes.

Then Gunderman left the stand, his face plainly showing strain and fatigue after the gruelling ordeal of almost five hours.

Gunderman explained he had given a written report to Capt. Jacob Mauch of the state police in which he said Monaghan was not abused. Under the questioning of Duggan he said he had given another later oral report to Corporal Conwell describing in substance his struggle with Monaghan.

Gunderman admitted flinging Monaghan over his head by Jiu Jitsu; striking him twice, once in the abdomen and once on the jaw; raising him by an arm and an ear and taking him to the shower room, and finding him fallen on the tile floor in the lavatory.

Later, after demonstrating his Jiu Jitsu on Cergeant H. W. Pierce who was knocked out before the eyes of the jury and also with the Attorney General himself and another fellow trooper as models, Gunderman admitted he could have subdued Monaghan without doing him bodily harm.

An almost unnoticed figure in the courtroom was Monaghan's wife, attired in black. She sat near the front railing and at times seemed to break into tears, especially when Gunderman told how Monaghan's broken body slipped from a stretcher as it was being borne to an undertaking establishment.

Wyoming High Students End Strike Today

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Feb. 23.—Wyoming high school's sit-down strike of nearly 400 students ended today but a general strike of Wyoming schools loomed unless grievances are adjusted.

Following the plea of the Rev. Freeman Haines, who suggested that the boys and girls go back to classes and that a mass meeting of students, the board of education, and the public be held tonight, the student-strikers voted to go back to their classrooms.

Use of the gymnasium of the new high school building, letters and sweaters for the boy's basketball team, and a paid coach for the girls' basketball team were the principal demands of the strikers.

Leaders of the movement warned today that a "general strike" of all Wyoming schools will be called tomorrow unless tonight's mass gathering irons out the student-school board differences.

"MADE ME LIKE ANOTHER MAN"

"World's Tonic has made me like an entirely different man," declared James D. Miles to the World's Tonic interviewer. "Everything looks a lot better to me than it did a few weeks ago," said Mr. Miles, who is employed at Carnegie Steel Co.

"For several months I had attacks of indigestion and dyspepsia. I was actually afraid to eat, because after each meal my stomach filled with gas so that it bloated, and this gas pressed on my heart. Sometimes it made me so short of breath that I felt I was smothering. Several times I lay gasping for breath and expecting each one to be my last. My bowels were all out of order, and only the strongest kind of physics every day would give me any relief. My liver was sluggish, and I was billious most of the time. This gave me terrible headaches, and often I was so dizzy I felt I would fall over. At night I was so nervous I could not sleep, and lay there with my body jerking and my muscles twitching. In the morning I felt I could not get up and with all my pains and aches I was irritable and morose. My weight dropped off greatly.

"So many of my buddies talked about World's Tonic, the new wonderful medicine that creates excitement everywhere it is used, so I thought I would give it a trial, even though some widely advertised medicines had failed to help me. I took almost two bottles before I would admit that it had done me any good. But after that improvement was rapid. Now I enjoy my meals and eat freely without fear of any bad results. Gas does not worry me any more, and there is no feeling of smothering after my meals. My bowels are regular, and I am free of headaches and dizziness. My nerves are stronger. I sleep restfully and get up in the morning refreshed. I certainly would be most ungrateful to this great remedy if I did not urge other people to use World's Tonic. This good medicine can be obtained at Eckerd's, Paisley's, or any other first class drug store. (A-60)
